

Clay Reflection

Well, i gave myself a 8 because i started off well, but then after I started to write the symbols, it was too big, then it was too small. After I got the hang of it it turned out really good.

I enjoyed carving the symbols the most, i liked drawing the different shapes and curves, because it's really fun playing with the different tools and techniques. What i found difficult was when we had to roll out the clay because i had a really big piece so that it was hard to roll, and it was dry a little, so when rolled it out it had a lot of cracks.

Next time i would do differently is that i will plan out more what i going to do because when i started out like what i said in the first paragraph i made it too big then too small and left so much empty space on my clay tablet better and faster because i think i spent a little more time than i should've.
